2010/2011 Pocket Guide

DEAR HYUNDAI SALES MANAGERS AND SALES CONSULTANTS,

These are very unique times for the automotive industry—while other companies are struggling, more and more new vehicle buyers are discovering the superior value and quality of Hyundai vehicles.

In the last year, we successfully launched the all-new, ultra-luxurious Genesis sedan—rated the most significant new model for 2009—as well as the sporty rear-wheel-drive Genesis Coupe and the new Elantra Touring.

For the 2010/2011 model years, the goal is to continue providing car buyers with a variety of models so they can select the one that best meets their needs. To that end, there is the all-new 2010 Tucson as well as a fresh, new Santa Fe, plus the all-new 2011 Sonata—all three demonstrate that buyers can get the features they want at a price they can afford.

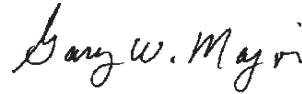

This 2010/2011 Pocket Guide has been designed to meet your needs. The content is organized so you have quick access to the data you need while out on the lot—there are charts that demonstrate the differences between trim levels, list the different options packages and list the available colors. We've also included some key facts, competitive strengths and industry accolades in a way that's convenient to share with a customer.

Remember, the 2010/2011 Pocket Guide is just a brief overview—more thorough information can be found in the 2010/2011 Product Source Booklet, as well as on the Sales Training Online website at www.hyundaidealer.com, where you will also find the Fast Facts for each model as well as the current Dare to Compare charts that note our competitive strengths.

I recommend that you check out all of these resources on a regular basis so you're always up to date on the latest Hyundai product information.

Wishing you continued good luck, good selling and customer satisfaction!

Sincerely,

Gary W. Major
Manager, National Sales Training

ACCOLADES AND AWARDS

Early press on the 2011 Sonata:

Automobile.com: “Hyundai’s upward climb will be bolstered by the addition of the 2011 Sonata to showrooms this January. Riding on the success of the Genesis sedan and coupe, the Sonata finally gives Hyundai a very competitive entry into the hugely important midsize sedan segment—and it doesn’t hurt that this time, the Sonata looks great. Hyundai’s new Fluidic Sculpture design language debuts on the Sonata and will quickly migrate to other Hyundai models as part of the brand’s ambitious plan to unveil seven new models in the next 24 months. Stronger lines and more dramatic shapes are part of the Fluidic Sculpture design language, which is supposed to simulate motion even when the car is standing still. Hyundai finally has the right mix of looks, technology, and pricing to go from being a sensible choice to a highly desirable midsize sedan with the 2011 Sonata.”

CARandDRIVER.com: “. . . the next Sonata will have a surprisingly saucy profile. The car appears to have grown measurably, although with the roofline stretching into the trunk, it has a four-door-coupe-ish, Volkswagen CC-like sleekness, with an upswept character line providing a convenient location for the door handles. Inside, the Sonata gets much sportier, with blue-accented controls and a swoopy four-spoke steering wheel. The HVAC controls look very Volvo-like, and the tunneled gauges could have been ripped right out of a Mercedes-Benz SLK.”

LeftLaneNews.com: “. . . the stylish new Sonata is Hyundai’s most serious effort yet at tackling mainstream sales leaders Ford Fusion, Honda Accord and Toyota Camry. Styled at Hyundai’s Irvine, California, studio, the Sonata is a fresh design that takes some cues from the Subaru Legacy and Volkswagen cc. Slightly larger than the existing Sonata, the new car feels substantially roomier inside. Special attention has been paid to materials and design, which is substantially more upmarket than before.”

CarScoop.com: “. . . we’d say that the sixth-generation Sonata makes a huge step (call that a leap) forward in terms of design. Some will even claim that it clearly adopts styling cues from the so-called four-door coupe segment such as the swooping roofline and the stubby rear end, and they’re probably right. The Sonata also boasts a fresh interior with a contemporary styling that’s in line with the Korean firm’s latest products such as the new Tucson.”

ACCOLADES AND AWARDS

Motor Trend: “Obviously, Hyundai has much to be proud of with its first rear-drive sport coupe. The value is unbeatable. The quality is tip-top. . . For an initial effort, in a field that it’s never played, Hyundai has delivered a solid, sexy product.”

Car and Driver—May 2009 edition: “Considering the price—Hyundai has bull’s-eyed the target, starting with specs that are right for enthusiasts. Also . . . the V-6 has enough horsepower to satisfy if not electrify with its 5.7-second runs to 60 mph (all on regular gas!).”

Kelley Blue Book’s www.kbb.com recognized the 2010 Genesis Coupe on its list of “10 Most Fun Clunker Replacements”—the list was designed to help car shoppers looking to get more excitement out of their government credit under the Car Allowance Rebate System (CARS) program.

Kelley Blue Book’s www.kbb.com also named the 2010 Genesis Coupe to its “Top 10 Tax Refund Cars” list, which recognizes the hottest new coupes and convertibles.

Edmunds.com: “You simply get more car for your dollar with the Genesis coupe. . . The Hyundai effectively opens up the sport coupe arena to a new buyer—one who isn’t prepared to drop the better part of $50 large on a car but wants the looks and most of the performance of the big players. And that, friends, earns the 2010 Hyundai Genesis Coupe 3.8 a spot on anybody’s short list of possible purchases.”

ACCOLADES AND AWARDS

Intellichoice and AutoPacific honored the Tucson with a 2009 Motorist Choice Award in the Compact Crossover SUV category for its top scores in ownership satisfaction and overall value

Motor Trend's Truck Trends had this to say about the 2010 Tucson: "There will be no confusing the new Tucson with the outgoing model. The styling has been radically altered to fit Hyundai's new 'fluidic sculpture' design motif and features major changes to the sheetmetal all around. The most noticeable changes are to the front end, where the current Tucson's bug-eyed styling is gone in favor of pulled-back headlights, sharp creases and Hyundai's corporate hexagonal grille. Changes to the front and rear fascias as well as the side skirts make the Tucson look lower and more car-like, making it more like a crossover and less like an SUV, as is the style these days."

AutoGuide.com said, "The new Tucson is an example of what Hyundai calls its new 'fluidic' design language with its sweeping, curved lines. Hyundai lowered the overall height of the new Tucson while still promising extra legroom and headroom. A new dual-panel panoramic sunroof with ultraviolet blocking also works to create a feeling of spaciousness."
